

Conservation District Supervisor Responsibilities

Conservation district supervisors, as elected or appointed officials of a local government, have an obligation to uphold the law and fulfill the public trust, using taxpayer dollars as effectively as possible. Volunteering time does not make district supervisor obligations any different than those for other elected officials like county commissioners. Many responsibilities and requirements of district supervisors in how they conduct district business are outlined in the Conservation Districts Law (RCW 89.08). However, the concept of the public trust is broader. It encompasses the public's expectation of a responsive, just, and equitable district government accountable to its citizenry. Providing such a government is your primary challenge as a district supervisor.

A significant time commitment is associated with performing the responsibilities of a Conservation District Supervisor. The regular time commitment includes: monthly board meetings (2-6 hours), area meetings in October (1 day), WACD convention in November (3 days), committee & special meetings, community contact, preparation time, continuing education (6 hours/year)

The attached listing includes responsibilities for Supervisors to fulfill to realize your district's mission, your responsibilities under the Conservation Districts Law, and your general obligations to the public. The citizens of your district will hold you accountable to these standards.
