

Proposed RCW Change Related to Conservation District Elections – 2018

Updated September 11, 2018

Exemption to RCW 42.56.210

Email addresses and telephone numbers of voters in conservation district elections under RCW 89.08.190.

Comment: Conservation districts are required to keep track of absentee ballot requests. Most use an electronic database that voters access themselves and supply personally identifying information in relation to their request, including their email address and telephone number. This exemption would protect email addresses and telephone numbers that voters supply to the conservation districts the same as voter registration lists in general elections. Other personally identifying information (name, address, etc) would be disclosable, as in general elections, just not email addresses and telephone numbers.
